

STEVEN EASTWOOD

filmmaker and artist talks and shows his work

Wednesday January 18th at 4 pm
Roland Levinsky Building Lecture Theatre 2

Steven Eastwood is a filmmaker and artist who works with fiction and documentary.

He recently completed his first feature, Buried Land (in collaboration with Alan Rhodes), official selection: Tribeca, Moscow, Sarajevo, Mumbai Film Festival 2010.

Recent group exhibitions include Jerwood Gallery, London; QUT Gallery, Brisbane Australia, Globe Gallery, Newcastle; KK projects Gallery, New Orleans; Castlefield Gallery, Manchester; Stephen Lawrence Gallery, London; TANK TV, ICA London; EMAF Osnabruck, Germany; I:I Gallery, Rome.

Eastwood's work appropriates narrative and documentary conventions, dragging the appearances of the cinema's habits into unusual contexts. Story burns in the gate, subjects become caught-up in the interval of the edit, representation is made complicated. The content of his films, although elliptical, often deals with the collective will of a people to construct new paradigms of behaviour, and with narratives of faith and of truth.

Eastwood is currently Co-Programme Leader in Film & Video at the University of East London. He has published numerous book chapters, conference papers and articles and gained a theory-practice PhD through UCL, The Slade in 2007 for the research project Cinema into the Real. He co-founded the arts laboratory event OMSK and the Volcano! Film Festival in the 1990s.
